Hello, here's a picture of me. I'm 36. It was 14 years ago that a HT was already made, but only 300 grafts were placed in the corners and a little bit in front, which was not very satisfying. I'm interested in a Dense Packing and a hairline, as far in front as possible (as close to my original line as possible). I've been taking Finasteride for 14 years, but otherwise I've had a significant hair loss again since half a year, which has been accompanied by a lot of stress. Before that, there was a long stagnation, yes in the last few years I even noticed that some hairs on the top of my head were getting thicker again (therefore also my interest in a HT again), before that I could cover the corners with the rest. On the right side, it shifted over the last half year, especially at the temple. I would like to know how many grafts I would need, whether FUT is necessary or whether FUE is still possible (it should depend on the number of grafts). Otherwise, I read everywhere about Heitmann, Feriduni, Devroy and if it's still possible in Germany, then only Hattingen or perhaps Azar - I hope I understood it correctly.

It would be interesting to know if such a Dense Packing is feasible in a treatment, or if it's just not possible due to the low growth rate of the hair.
