DUTAGE

(Dutasteride Soft Gelatin)

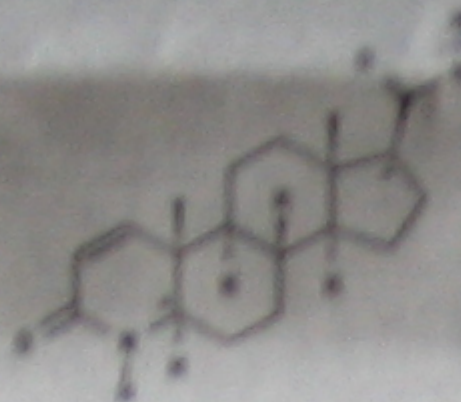

COMPOSITION

Each soft gelatin capsule contains

Dutasteride 0.5 mg

DESCRIPTION

Dutasteride is a synthetic 5- α -reductase inhibitor that is a selective inhibitor of both type 1 and type 2 5- α -reductase enzymes. The chemical structure is designated as (11*R*)-10-(13*S*)-10,13-dihydro-5*H*-benzo[a]cyclopenta[a]pyridine-11-yl-3-oxo-4-oxopentanoate (1*R*), *C*₂₇H₃₅N₂O₃, representing a molecular weight of 426.5.

Chemical structure of Dutasteride (1*R*), *C*₂₇H₃₅N₂O₃

Pharmacokinetics

Effectiveness of Dutage

Dutasteride inhibits the conversion of testosterone to 5- α -DHT, thereby reducing the total development and subsequent enlargement of the prostate gland. In the type 1 5- α -reductase, which exists as 2 isoforms, type 1 and type 2. The type 2 5- α -reductase, which exists as 2 isoforms, type 1 and type 2. The type 1 5- α -reductase is also responsible for testosterone conversion in the skin. Dutasteride is a competitive and specific inhibitor of both type 1 and type 2 5- α -reductase enzymes. Pharmacokinetic data for Dutage has been established using 14 healthy subjects.

The maximum effect of daily doses of dutasteride on the reduction of DHT is seen after 1 and 2 weeks of daily therapy with dutasteride 0.5 mg. Similar results are reported in patients with BPH treated with dutasteride 0.5 mg/day for 1 and 2 years and 10% of 2 years. The maximum reduction in total testosterone was 10% of the starting range.

In 10% patients treated with 0.5 mg/day of dutasteride or placebo for up to 12 weeks, mean DHT concentrations in prostatic tissue were significantly lower in the 0.5 mg group, respectively, 2.0 (SD 0.5) and 1.0 (SD 0.5) ng/g, respectively. Mean prostatic tissue concentrations of dutasteride group compared with placebo (0.5 mg and 0.5 mg), respectively, 2.0 and 1.0 ng/g, with significantly affected type 2 5- α -reductase activity also in sufficient males had a small prostate gland throughout the trial. No side effects were observed in patients treated with dutasteride 0.5 mg/day. There is no effect on the reduction of testosterone in patients treated with dutasteride 0.5 mg/day and long-term safety with dutasteride following 12 weeks of treatment.

Mal noch ne andere Frage:
Warum gibt es von Dr. Reddy's das Dutasteride mit unterschiedlichen Namen (Dutas und Dutagen)?
